Brightwood hopeful fall will bring sewers, water

MOKENA — Brightwood residents are hopeful that by fall they will have a water and sewer system. There is a public hearing scheduled for July 31 at 7:30 p.m. in the Mokena Village Hall before the Village Board sitting as the Board of Local Improvements.

At that hearing the Village Engineer George Barber will present detailed drawings of the proposed project, including the costs.

The project is to be built through special assessment. At the public hearing residents of the area may raise objections. The village also will be in a position at that hearing to say how much it will be able to contribute toward the improvements in the form of public benefits. Each year a public benefits tax is levied.

The village will participate in the financing because it is requiring the use of oversize mains so that eventually a larger area may be served. At the village board meeting last week Mayor Will Tuttle said the village will benefit through tap-ons.

If the board of local improvements decides to proceed with the program following the public hearing — and there is no doubt it will give approval because the village is committed to provide Brightwood with a connection to a sewage disposal plant — the case will then be taken to the Will County Circuit Court. Formerly public improvements were handled in the county court but under the new court system county courts no longer exist.

The court also will hear any objections that may be forthcoming before reaching a decision. If the court does approve the project then it will order that an assessment be spread against the property owners involved.

At the meeting of the village board Engineer Barber gave an estimate of $36 a foot for installation of both water and sewer. It is pointed out that the cost per foot plan is the fairest for all concerned. It is probable, it was said, that the cost may run less than $36 a foot for the property owners because the village's share through public benefits could reduce it to some extent.

The Brightwood sewer project has been a considerable time in the making. It was pointed out. In the beginning when Brightwood was annexed to the village, about three years ago. One of the main reasons the people there wanted to annex to the village was to get sewer service.

At the time there was expectancy of a planned unit development (PUD) on the Marion Owens farm, the plans for which included a sewage disposal plant on Hickory Creek. Arrangements were made with the developers by the village to route sewers from Brightwood, and eventually from the south end of the village to the treatment plant on Hickory Creek. This would allow for a gravity flow system which is less expensive to install and operate than one in which a lift station must be employed.

Plans for the proposed unit development have not materialized up to this time. The land has changed hands and the new owners have had plans drawn for a sewage treatment plant that have passed muster with the state Environmental Protection Agency, which formerly was the State Water Board, but there has been no indication as to when it would be built.

Meanwhile, residents of Brightwood have been clamoring for a sewer system and with the passing of time prices for labor and material have risen. The village agreed to tie the Brightwood system up with its sewage plant on Wolf Road, near 197th Street, and Barber was authorized to draft plans and specifications.

The system as planned will require a lift station at the south end of Brightwood, on Burr Oak Lane. Barber has designed it to handle sewage at the rate of 200 gallons-per-minute. Sewage from the subdivision will be routed to the lift station and from there into a force main that will carry it north and under the Rock Island tracks to 116th Avenue. It will operate by gravity on 116th and eventually enter the treatment plant.

There will be 10-inch water mains to bring service into the development with six and eight-inch mains fed from this for fire protection, it was said.

Barber said it would be too costly to re-seed or re-sod any areas that might be damaged in the installation of mains but that streets and driveway will be restored to their original conditions.

At the board meeting it was agreed that the high school and grade school boards would be furnished agendas for Planning Commission meetings and village board meetings when new developments are being proposed. This will give schools an early opportunity to press their requests for land or cash contributions to meet some of the cost of supplying educational facilities for an increased population.

Donald Van Buren appeared before the board to get its feeling on his plans for an industrial development on 80th Avenue, between 191st Street and I-80. He has 32 acres there, he said, and has a prospect now for a five-acre tract, involving a large pipefitting business.

Van Buren said the firm planned a quarter of a million dollar investment in quarters for a shop and warehousing.

Van Buren said he plans to build roads with a 12-inch base beneath the surface. He plans 1,300 feet of roadway.

The county zoning is I-1 (light industry) it was reported. Van Buren came to the village board because the property is within 1½ miles from strip-annexed parts of Mokena. There was some talk about annexation and Van Buren was not averse to the idea but in the discussion it was virtually agreed that at present it was impractical.

At the next meeting of the board on July 11 Engineer Barber expects to be ready to take bids on street repairs, materials and weed cutting. It is estimated the street program will cost about $17,252, of which about half will be in contracts to regular road builders. The other work will be done by the village, it was said.

It also was reported that work on the Hamilton Street crossing over the Rock Island should be completed in about two weeks. The crossing has been closed for many months. The village wants to complete its part of the work and open

City buys building

Garage will house police station

MOKENA Space to store village trucks, cars and other equipment, and also for new headquarters of the Mokena police department will be provided through purchase of the Walter Yunker garage building at 11120 Front Street for the sum of $75,000.

Approval of the purchase has been given by the unanimous vote of the Mokena Village Board. An ordinance was adopted at its recent meeting under which the village will enter into a contract with Walter L. and Anna I. Yunker to purchase the building over a 10 or 20 year period. It was indicated by the board that the 10-year arrangement would be followed. The interest rate is not to exceed six per cent.

The board will also adopt an ordinance at a later meeting to levy a tax to meet the installments for the purchase, which would be approximately some $8,000 a year over a 10-year period.

The garage section of the building, which has been used by Walter Yunker to conduct his business of hauling and excavating and road commissioner for Frankfort Township, will serve the village to store its vehicular equipment and the front section used for office purposes would be taken over by the police department as its headquarters.

Present headquarters for police are too cramped, it was pointed out, and the village does not have any storage space of its own to store its equipment.

A copy of the ordinance appears in this week's issue and will be published again next week, as required by law. It becomes effective 60 days after the second publication. The second publication will be on July 12.

A referendum could be held on the proposal, if, within the 60-day period, a petition is signed by one per cent of the total vote cast at the last preceding village election and filed with the village clerk.

the crossing as soon as possible.

There is a zoning board hearing scheduled for tonight, July 5, in the village hall for a re-hearing on the William Weber planned unit development. The village will waive the fees for this hearing. An understanding between the village board and the Webers was reached early last month relative to the density of living units.

What's ahead?

Youth group tells plans

MOKENA — A review of past activities and an outline of its future hopes has been compiled by the Mokena Youth Commission in its recent report prepared by David Downs, head of its public relations committee.

There are plans for the current summer listing trips and dances but for the future the commission is hopeful of getting the cooperation of Mokena Park District for a recreation program in which the entire community could share, adults as well as the younger element.

The commission and the park board have had two meetings and plan others to see what arrangements can be worked out. The comprehensive recreation program considered would cover regular weekly activities for a year.

It is proposed to employ a recreational director to plan and supervise the program. Donna said there is a student at Moraine Valley Community College who is majoring in this field that could be had on an internship basis.

Suggestions for the year-round program include basketball, softball, volleyball, modern dancing, arts and crafts, discussion sessions and lectures on various subjects in which there is interest and, of course dances.

It is also proposed that the facilities be improved at the Youth Center, which is the floor above the library at the head of Cross Street. Leveling the floor is one improvement recommended, improve the lighting, and install a pool table, ping pong table, and a telephone are others that are needed, the report states.

Right now, the report goes on to say, the Center could use some interested citizens for chaperones at various activities. Three members are also needed to fill out the Youth Commission. The latest resignation from that body is Donald Teague, who is moving to New Lenox. Persons who are interested in serving on the commission are invited to get in contact with Mayor Tuttle — the appointments to the Youth Commission are made by the village board — or John Weber, chairman. Persons who will serve as chaperones are asked by Weber to come to him.

The Youth Commission meets every third Thursday at the Center. Besides Weber the other members now are Nancy George, Ethel Feil David Downs, David Morlan and Peggy Jones. Chief function of the commission is to provide a program of activities for the youth of Mokena area.

In the past there have been dances, pool parties, bowling, roller skating and assisting in the clean-up day program in the village. On the present schedule is a trip to the Sand Dunes next Wednesday, July 12; a dance at the Zodiac Club July 22, 8 to 11 p.m.; a trip to Lake Carlyle, in Southern Illinois, Aug. 7-11 and a dance

The trip to the Dunes next Wednesday will be made by bus and the cost will be $2.50 per person. As for the outing to Lake Carlyle pamphlets describing the area and facilities and other information may be obtained from members of the commission, the report states.

The commission stressed that help is needed from all citizens of the area to insure that the youth therein will have a good and effective recreation programs. The adults will benefit as well, it was pointed out.

Puppet show set Friday

FRANKFORT — A puppet show will feature the Special Events Day slated for Friday (July 7) at Chelsea School as part of the summer recreation program sponsored by the Frankfort Park District.

Raymond Knecht, director of the summer program, said the puppet show will be put on by members of Girl Scout Troop 386, under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Mihelic.

Following the show Mrs. Mihelic and the scouts will instruct the youngsters attending how to make and operate puppets of their own. The program will run from 2:30-4 p.m., and is specially put on for the youngsters in the Chelsea district ranging from those of kindergarten through the third grade.

The same program will be given for youngsters of the same age at the Frankfort School next Tuesday, July 11, for those in that area. Knecht said. Tomorrow (Thursday) youngsters from kindergarten through the eighth grade will go to the Brookfield Zoo.

On Wednesday of last week the Park District hosted 50 youngsters on a trip to Comiskey Park where they saw the White Sox beat the Oakland "A's" and Vida Blue, 6-4.

Last Friday the younger children, kindergarten through third grade, spent most of the day at Pilcher Park. They played games, went on a treasure hunt, hiked and visited the park museum to view the animals there.

Whitaker heads alumni

NEW LENOX — Ronald Whitaker, who operates an insurance business here and formerly served the village as a magistrate, has been elected president of the Joliet Junior College Alumni Association. He replaced Dr. Thomas Streitz, of Joliet, in the post.

Whitaker, who was active in the campaign creating the present Junior College District was elected to the first board of trustees, serving from 1967-1970. His elevation to the presidency of the alumni group was a jump from his position as treasurer of the organization.

Other alumni officers elected at the recent meeting of the board of directors are: Attorney George E. Sangmeister, Mokena, vice-president; Miss Judy Termuende, Lockport, secretary, and John Honiotes, Joliet treasurer.

The new officers began their duties July 1, for a one-year term. New members of the board of directors of the Alumni Association include Russell Wunderlich, Joliet; Mrs. Tessie Heubach Heath, Marcelline, Mo.; Mrs. Laura Cato and Robert Martin, both of Joliet.

Date for the fall reunion of the alumni group has been set for Oct. 7, with dinner at Holiday Inn West and a dance on the new JJC campus. Miss Susan H. Wood, former administrative assistant to the JJC president, is executive secretary of the Alumni Association.

License fee loses again

MOKENA — Another effort by Trustee Anthony Dina to give senior citizens a break on the fee for village vehicle stickers met the same fate that a similar proposal met some months ago. It was voted down.

A motion was made to table the suggestion and the motion was adopted.

Dina proposed to fix the vehicle license fee at $1 a year when purchased by those who have reached or gone beyond their 65th year. Dina indicated that he will keep on trying to win the board over to his idea. There are some municipalities where a reduction is made in the vehicle license fees paid by senior citizens. But in Mokena the fee is $5 for everyone if paid on time.

Residents in the unincorporated areas of Cook County have been informed that as of July 1 their cars must carry a county sticker, which costs $15 a year, with the half year remaining in 1972 being counted as a whole one. However, the legality of this fee is being tested in court and all money collected for these stickers is being held in escrow.

As deadline nears:

Ethics filing brings confusion

There was a great scramble last week among public office holders, candidates for public office and certain employees of taxing bodies, to get their statements of economic interests filed before Saturday.

Since the filings were made through the county offices of the various county clerks and the secretary of state those places were on the busy side.

A lot of the persons affected didn't know they were until a few days before the July 1, deadline. For instance at Mokena last Tuesday night village attorney George Sangmeister reminded village officials that they had to file under the ethics law enacted at the last session of the legislature.

Village Attorney August J. Santoro, of Frankfort, informed board members there likewise.

A Cook County circuit judge had ruled the act was of no effect but last week the Illinois Supreme Court said it was, and that is the court that counts, unless someone can get the U.S. Supreme Court to take the case and rule otherwise.

Meanwhile, those who don't file — if they are supposed to file — and show their financial connections and whether it relates to their elected or appointive jobs, can get into trouble it was said.

The ethics bills, according to its backers, is supposed to curb any potential public officers may have about piling up shoe boxes in their clothes closets or benefitting from transactions in which their political influence could serve as capital for very lucrative deals.

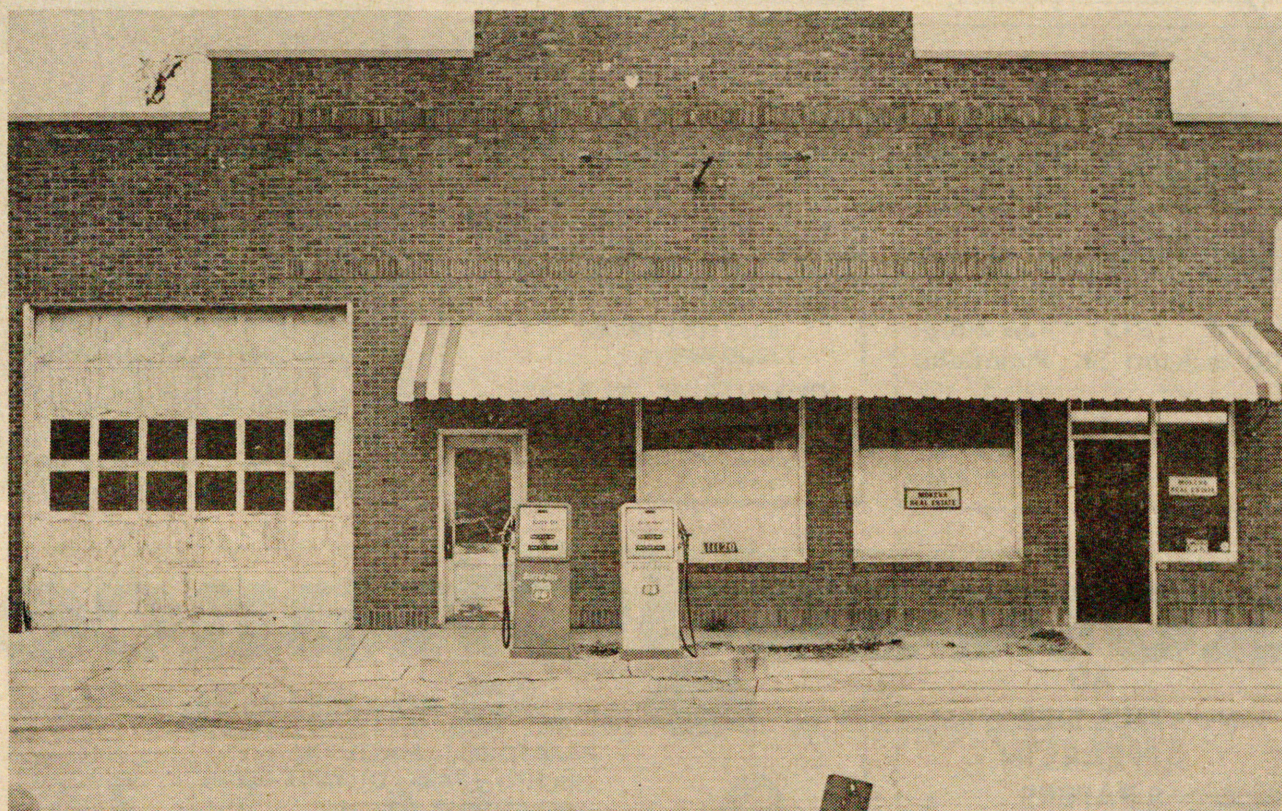

Now employees of public bodies who earn less than $20,000 don't have to file but those who are on the payrolls for that amount or more had to get their reports in before last Saturday.

Attorney Sangmeister said school board members, village board members, as well as members of zoning boards, plan commissions, and park boards. Members of industrial commissions or advisory committees, it was said, do not have to file.

Since no policeman in the Frankfort-Mokena-New Lenox area is paid $20,000 or more a year in salary they too are exempt from filing.

Attorney Sangmeister, for instance, had to file twice — once as a member of the Lincoln-Way High School Board of Education and once as a candidate for state representative in the 42nd district on the Democratic ticket this fall.

Summer fun Carnival plans return visit to OF Hospital

OAK FOREST — When the old folks and other patients at the Oak Forest Hospital look back on last summer, it doesn't surprise anyone that one of their happiest memories is of the carnival held there last July.

It was such a huge success that John McIntosh, in whose mind that carnival idea originated, decided to have a repeat performance.

Over 150 volunteers coordinated by McIntosh and Gerry O'Reilly, his chief assistant, will once again treat the 1900 patients at the hospital to a carnival.

It will take place on Saturday, July 15 from noon to 5:00 p.m. on the hospital grounds, 159th St. & Cicero Ave.

The Carnival volunteers would like to share the experience with the community. Anyone who wishes to participate by wheeling patients around, baking homemade goodies, sending gifts to be given as prizes or with cash can call the following numbers:

General information: John McIntosh 238-1612
Volunteers: Marilyn Thibau 233-4941
Food: Gerry O'Reilly 239-5680
Gifts: John Lydon 779-6055
Checks should be made payable to: The Oak Forest Carnival Volunteers.

The carnival is for "PATIENTS ONLY," and the public is asked not to go out to Oak Forest unless they sign up to help.

Bus service will be provided for volunteers with no means of transportation of their own.

Loan is planned

CHICAGO—A loan for $3,358,800 is being arranged by Percy Wilson Mortgage & Finance Corp., for the 192-unit Edgewater Walk apartments under construction at 167th Street and Oak Park Avenue in Tinley Park.

The project will have 83 one-bedroom apartments and 108 with two bedrooms, and rents will range from $200 to $255, according to Jack Korshak, head of the mortgage company's multi-family division.

The three story complex will include such features as central air-conditioning, patios and balconies. A natural lake and recreational building will be adjacent to the project.

Edgewater Walk is being built by Southwest Construction Co. and the architect is John Fahey Jr.

Present were President Curtis Whitaker and Trustees William Presler and Gerald Devero. Trustee Donald Kellogg informed Whitaker by phone prior to the meeting that due to car trouble he could not get to the meeting. The trustee was detained in Oak Lawn. President Whitaker, through a press release, stated that the building department and Tekton had attended a meeting, and that Tekton has come to an agreement on nearly all of the home complaints.

At the June 17 board meeting Building Inspector Dennis Ward stated that the only items that Tekton had not agreed to take care of was the siding and the covering of a drainage ditch in the southern section of the village.

Town officials 'on the move'

WESTHAVEN — In recent months a number of Westhaven officials have decided to sell their homes and move out of the village.

Most recent is Village Clerk Charles Short. Several weeks ago Short placed a "for sale" sign at his home and at that time he planned to purchase another home in Westhaven. The Short family has now decided to move out of Westhaven.

Trustee Diane Bartholomey also has placed her home up for sale and will resign from the village board upon moving out of the village.

At a recent Wednesday night committee meeting two residents of Westhaven asked the Trustee Bartholomey if she would resign now. Mrs. Bartholomey stated that she would resign now if a petition containing signatures of 50 percent of the residents of the village was presented to her.

The woman trustee asked Village President Curtis Whitaker if he would resign if a similar petition was presented to him. Mrs. Bartholomey said President Whitaker would not give a definite answer.

We're lucky Tragedy by-passes midwest

During the past two weeks, American readers and listeners have been getting helpings of human tragedy with breakfast and dinner with reports of catastrophic flooding in South Dakota, Florida Beach, and in 12 eastern states.

Some of us lucky enough to be outside the sweep of nature's capriciousness are numbered rather than motivated by pleas for help and offers of assistance that have been the daily fare, one other earnest cry for help from Red Cross, which is presently in danger of having its financial well run dry because of the heavy strain on funds in the flooded area, has almost gone unnoticed.

The Red Cross funds actually ran dry with the South Dakota floods and the organization is now facing the expenditure of many of dollars in the 12 eastern states.

The organizations disaster budget is exhausted and has been for many weeks and the Red Cross has been hanging on aiding the persons in the disaster area only through individuals making donations to the disaster relief fund campaign. The Red Cross needs immediate help through donations to its disaster fund so that it can help the thousands left homeless from the floods.

Complacency Pollution battle just begun

If we're going to win the war against pollution, against the despoilers of our air, water and earth, the battle is going to cost money — and if we want to win, we must pay the price.

That's the message which comes out of a recent crisis which temporarily removed the Illinois Pollution Control Board, the top state pollution fighter, from the battlefield.

Earlier this month, the IPCB found itself short $165,000 needed to finish up business before the end of the fiscal year.

The public, however, was not directly responsible for the funding hole. The culprit was the Illinois Senate, which was refusing to approve an emergency appropriation.

It wasn't a small fund loss, either. The IPCB had been forced to defer approximately 240 days of hearings, according to a League of Women Voters spokeswoman.

In fact, the board partially ran out of funds in mid-January, so that the act of transcribing testimony had to be halted temporarily. By April 10, the IPCB had run completely out of money.

Finally, however, towards the end of this month the Senate stopped dawdling and passed a $145,000 emergency appropriations bill which Governor Richard Ogilvie signed. At last, the IPCB could function as an arm of government once again.

Perhaps all of this controversy is but a minor matter which reflects only the political intrigue of end-of-the-session political finagling.

Indeed, this is part of it. But too, the Senate simply refused to respond to a crisis in one of our most important state agencies.

We are at a point in the environmental fight where the first well-publicized push to clean up our environment has faded and we are down to plotting the simple mechanics of how to clean up our world.

Has the push ended, and is it business-as-usual? Will the streams remain polluted, will the skies stay dirty, and will the noise levels in our cities remain intolerable?

The answers to those questions rest with each of us, and with our elected leaders. It appeared that the Senate, for three or four months at least, decided those questions would be answered "yes," through the default of inaction. We hope it reconsiders what is its responsibility to the people of this state before it wallows in inaction again in a crisis.

Letters to the Editor

the Fence Post

Editor:

It seems as though each week we are treated to an article on the lively and heated exchanges taking place at Oak Forest Park District meetings. After reading today's article, I would like to offer some background into the dispute between the Park District and the two Oak Forest girls' teams - the R.S.V.P.'s and the Chicks.

Last year a girls' 16" softball league was being contemplated and since no representative from the Oak Forest Park District was attending the initial meeting, Judy Cipolla and I went as independent representatives of the Village of Oak Forest. After many meetings and much time spent, the Sugar League was formed; with representatives from Crestwood, Palos Heights, Hickory Hills, Chicago Ridge and Oak Forest. With nothing behind us but guts, we committed two teams to the League and 9 to 12 participating in the competition. The Park District made available to us the registration fee, equipment, t-shirts and fields and the program was a big success. Girls have been calling all winter, asking when the season would be starting!

Because of our experience in organizing the League and the Oak Forest teams, we realized a program of this nature definitely requires preplanning. For that reason, immediately following last year's season we approached the Board and requested that this program be continued and offered our services for the following year. This was accepted and in January of 1972, the Board passed a motion that uniforms would be furnished the traveling girls. A list of required equipment and uniform sizes were furnished to the District, along with prices. We did spend considerable time pricing out the items, to be sure the best possible cost would be available.

On May 11th I attended a Board Meeting, after hearing rumors that we were no longer to receive uniforms. That was not the main point — the thing of importance was that this was a PROMISE to the girls and a PASSED MOTION. Certainly, if $7,000.00 can be spent on outfitting approximately 125 boys for football, $300.00 could be spent for the girls. The figures here certainly display some inequity in our spending. I was informed at this meeting that a new vote would be taken to rescind the motion of May 11th. Since there were not enough votes to rescind, the item was to be temporarily tabled.

At this time, Bob Walsh remarked that he was definitely against uniforms, since the Park District was not in the clothing business. How is it then, that all the Commissioners, their wives and many others throughout the Village wear Park District jackets? Why is it all the Commissioners have their five-point star name badges in a nice leather case? Of course, they don't wear these — so they don't count, I suppose.

At the next meeting I attended I asked why the Park District did not follow the same procedures used by most municipalities and taxing bodies... that is, rescind a motion at the next regular meeting and the one making the original motion is the one to rescind. I was informed that Park District follows Robert's Rules of Order. After discussion, it was again decided they would go ahead with uniforms, but only after they had picked teams and determined sizes.

At this time there was no scheduled try out time — nothing. Since the League was starting in two weeks — we honestly felt we could not afford to wait for the Park District to deliberate some more. You don't go into competition without some practice time. Judy and I then took some girls from her old team, some girls from my old team, added some new ones and came up with the R.S.V.P.'s. The Chicks are girls from the Fieldcrest-Gingerwood areas, whose parents also felt they were receiving no real benefit from the Park District and are now being sponsored by the Athletic Association and Homeowners' Association.

This is a particularly sore point with me right now because I feel my tax dollars are going to the Park District and I should be benefiting in some way from this expenditure. It has become not only necessary for us to obtain sponsorship from T & E Lounge for half our uniforms, but we have had to sponsor a car-wash, will have a raggle and a dance to meet outstanding expenses of the balance of uniforms, equipment, League registration and any invitation tournaments we may enter.

The one bright spot in this fiasco is that we're having fun! Our girls are willing to work for what they want and our team spirit can't be beat. Another measure of satisfaction is that last year each of our teams won two games all year... because they were just learning. This year the League has expanded from six to ten teams and right now the R.S.V.P.'s are in a two-way tie for first place. We can't be all bad!

Sincerely,
R.S.V.P.'s
Kay Bragg

Uncle Sam isn't all Santa

If you didn't already know, it is Uncle Sam who has the longest arm and the biggest hand when reaching into the pile of tax dollars. This was brought out in a recent release of Illinois Tax Facts, brought out by the Taxpayers Federation of Illinois.

Of the three levels of government, federal state and local, Uncle Sam got $1,092 (or 69 per cent of the taxes paid) on a per capita basis in Illinois in 1970; the state collected $286.20 (18 per cent), and the local governments got $200.58 (13 per cent).

The same sources figure that for fiscal 1973 (July 1, 1972-July 1, 1973) the burden of the federal budget to Illinois taxpayers will be $14,033,000,000 of $1,248 per capita. That local governments fare pretty well as the hands of the state is evident by the fact that for the coming fiscal year the local levels of government will receive $2,255,000,000 or 37.33 per cent of the taxes collected by the state.

Cities, villages and counties who have ordinances or resolutions levying on the state sales tax will pick up a total of $276,000,000 in addition to the other state aid they will get.

The state's collection is expected to total about $6,400,000,000 of which more than a third goes to local governments for education, health programs, public aid, environmental protection, stimulation of economic growth, transportation, law enforcement and combatting juvenile delinquency.

'This is farm country'

Third airport not welcome

PEOTONE — Kenneth Hauert, a greying village trustee and lifelong resident of Peotone, has a grimace on his face when he talks about the possibility of a jet airport near his home. "This is farm country," he said. "An airport, well, it would take up the valuable farm land that's dear to our hearts. And the plane itself with all that noise. We sure don't want anything like that down here."

Hauert speaks for the entire village board of the rural community nestled between Interstate 57 and the Illinois Central Railway Tracks about 25 miles south of Chicago. "It just doesn't belong here," he said.

Hauert feels the third major airport for the Chicago area "belongs in the industrial area of Indiana near Gary. There's not enough industry here to complement an airport."

Mrs. Evelyn Berry, Peotone village clerk, fears that an airport, if constructed near Peotone, would transform that tiny community (2,345 pop.) into one that "I wouldn't want to live in."

Mrs. Berry, who "moved to town" a few years ago after living for years in rural Will County, said the airport would make the village "boom overnight." She cited the gradual growth of the community (a 20 percent increase in population every 10 years) and is leery of "a population combustion."

The proposed site of the 20,000-acre facility is less than two blocks from the red brick village hall. "We have a nice town... clean with no major problems at all," said the bespectacled clerk. "But just think of an airport."

The major annoyance for those around village hall these days is the clamoring of the Illinois Central streamliners that speed by the offices. "That's enough noise for us" she added as the train sounded its horn and continued toward Chicago.

Mrs. Berry says she is more concerned about her pepper plants than the effects of an airport on the area because "I won't have anything to say about it anyway. If they decide on an airport, then they will put one in," she said.

But the Peotone chief of police admits he is worried. "If that airport comes here" he said, "there will be a large explosion of crime. We live in this area because of the safety and the lack of noise and tranquility."

A part of the Peotone Unit School District is located in the area that might be used for the airport and the three schools now located in the village would not be enough. "We have to make sure schools don't get overcrowded," the chief said. "And the facilities aren't left behind."

A number of residents who lunch at the Cottage Snack Shop in the midst of Peotone's slumbering downtown area are adamant concerning the jetport.

Elsie a bulky red haired cook there, said she would move elsewhere if the airport were constructed. "We live here to get away from all that... heavens it would bring all the riff-raff."

A recent edition of the Peotone Vedette, the town's newspaper carried banner headlines stating "School Board Plans for Population Growth." The newspaper wasn't considering an airport in the midst of the community.

But the headline may be more prophetic than anyone right now knows.

'Buck passing' a housing game

By Glenn Logan

Jefferson P. Throttlebottom, who undoubtedly could win any catch-as-catch-can free-loading contest staged in any part of the world if he put his mind to it, has eyes that are no bigger than his pockets or capacity — dry or liquid measure.

After helping himself generously to my cigar supply and maneuvering a full half-pound tin of pipe tobacco to the edge of the desk for an easy pick-up as he departed, Jeff sat down for a little chat.

"I see in the papers," he began, "that there is a great demand for housing in the country as a whole and that this is to make a lot of money for a lot of people."

"I think that is probably true," Jeff went on, "that building a lot of housing will make money for a lot of people. I remember reading a book once. I believe the title was 'A Crack in the Picture Window.' It dealt with housing developments. Someone buys a block of land and sells it to a corporation that he sets up — at a profit, naturally. Then this corporation sells to another corporation the same fellow or fellows set up — also at a profit."

"This is a building corporation and it forms some other corporations, including one that deals with the purchaser of the dwelling unit, whatever the form it may have taken."

"The beauty of all this," Jeff continued, "is that the purchaser of the living unit doesn't know whose got the ball. If he has any complaints to make he and they become lost in the corporate labyrinth."

"Sorry," the purchaser is told.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL E. GILLETTE

Candlelabra, flowers add to wedding scene

NEW LENOX — In a candlelight ceremony, Miss LaWanah Lee Wheatley and Paul E. Gillette were united in marriage Saturday, June 3, at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Mexico, Mo.

The two pledged their vows in a setting of candlelabras entwined with greenery and fresh spring flowers with the Rev. Robert Collins officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Candlelighters who also served as ushers were Cadet Kevin Gregory, Middletown, Mo. and Cadet John Reddick, Mexico, Mo. Both are students at Missouri Military Academy, Mexico.

As the host of relatives and friends were seated, Mrs. John Willer, Mexico, played nuptial selections and accompanied Miss Lorene Huddleson, Ames, Ia. as she sang, "We've Only Just Begun" and "Wedding Song."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. H. L. Thompson and Dr. H. E. Wheatley, New Hartford and Bowling Green. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Burton Gillette, New Lenox.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an original gown of organza and Chantilly lace over taffeta. The bodice with a high standing collar and long full sleeves was designed with beaded and scalloped motifs which extended onto the bouffant skirt, gradually diminishing at the hemline.

The bride's Spanish headpiece of lace held her bouffant Manteau falling over the face and cascading down the back, blending with the lace encrusted Chapel train. The bride wore a pearl necklace with matching earrings, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a formal bouquet of spring flowers of various colors.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her sister, Miss Tonya Wheatley, Mexico, Mrs. Robert E. Skoien, Sr., New Lenox, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Lorene Huddleson, Ames, Ia., Miss Cindy Thompson and Miss Kathy Baker, both of Mexico and Miss Anna Marie Thompson, Vandalia, junior bridesmaid.

Miss Wheatley, maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of lavender dotted swiss of Empire style and bishop sleeves. A narrow trim of daisies encircled the waist as well as the neckline and she wore a lace hat with large brim, with a touch of color matching her dress.

The other attendants wore gowns duplicating that of the maid of honor but in shades of yellow, blue and pink. Their hats also were identical with trim complementing their dress. Each carried a nosegay of mixed flowers centered with a small lighted candle.

Ronald Gillette, New Lenox, served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were H. L. Thompson, Mexico, step-father of the bride; David Russell, Mexico; Merrell Schneider, St. Charles; Steve Winniger, Elgin, Ia., all fraternity brothers of the groom. David Niekamp, Mexico, acted as junior groomsman.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Thompson chose a pink dress of beaded satin with long full sheer sleeves. Mrs. Gillette was dressed in a mint green ensemble of lace. Both mothers wore corsages composed of spring flowers.

The motif at the reception which followed at the church activity hall reflected the wedding pastel theme. The lace covered serving table held the three-tiered wedding cake and an arrangement of pastel flowers surrounded with lighted tapers.

Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Edward Mason, Ft. Myers, Fla., aunt of the bride while Miss Karla Baker, Mexico served the cake. Mrs. H. E. Wheatley, New Hartford, was in charge of the guest book.

Following the church reception, the bride and groom received more than 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents for champagne toast and viewing of gifts.

The new Mrs. Gillette is a graduate of Mexico Senior High School and is presently a junior at Northeast Missouri State College, Kirksville, where she is a nursing major. Paul is a graduate of Missouri Military Academy, Mexico, and is attending Northeast Missouri State College on a four year ROTC scholarship, where he is a junior majoring in biology. His fraternity is Alpha Kappa Lambda.

The couple is now residing in Kirksville.

Members of the groom's family attending from this area were: Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Emiley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Skoien, Ronald Gillette, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Pugh, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Pugh and daughter.

A reception for the newlyweds was given June 10 at the Marely Church by Mr. and Mrs. G. Burton Gillette. Relatives and friends unable to attend the wedding were in attendance.

MAYRIE JANE MC CORD

HAZEL CREST — Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert H. McCord, 3305 Oak Street, Hazel Crest, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mayrie Jane to Jack Mark Schwartz, son of Mrs. Clark Cookingham and Eugene J. Schwartz, both of Park Forest.

Age of Aquarius

Romeo and Juliet might have found true — though tragic — love at a youthful age, but Illinois law provides for a more realistic and thorough approach to the subject before sanctioning marriages for the younger generation.

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, the law requires males to be at least 21 and females to be at least 18 before they can legally tie the knot. Males of 18 or more years and females of 16 or more must have the consent of a parent or guardian.

The impending birth of a child can result in additional age variance. Males of 16 or more years and females of 15 or more can file a written petition requesting a court order for their marriage; however it is up to the court to determine whether the marriage should take place.

Under the law, the court's approval might be based on these findings: That the female is pregnant or has already given birth to a child along with her oath that her intended husband is the father; that the male has acknowledged that he is the father of the child; that the marriage has the approval of the parents or guardians.

Aside from these facts, the court must also determine whether the parties are entering into the marriage in good faith and intend to live together as husband and wife — and are not marrying solely for the purpose of legitimizing the child.

An underage resident of Illinois who enters into marriage in this state or elsewhere, has a marriage which could be voided at a later date. In such a marriage the minor can annul the marriage only upon reaching the age of consent. The marriage can also be ratified upon attaining the age of consent.

County fairs still rate

Though county fairs are reportedly not the great events they once were, three of the four area fairs ranked among the highest in the state for 1971 attendance.

The 1971 Lake County Fair, held at Grayslake, showed a 1971 attendance figure of 150,000. As such, it was the third highest attended county fair of the 1971 Illinois circuit.

The sixth best attended fair of 1971 was the DuPage County Fair at Wheaton. Statistics show that a total of 115,000 persons attended the 1971 DuPage fair.

The Will County Fair ranked considerably lower by the 1971 statistics, with a total of 35,000 persons attending. The annual event is held at Peotone.

Total attendance at Illinois' county fairs showed a four percent increase for 1971, according to Illinois Department of Agriculture reports. It appears, therefore, that the tradition of the county fair is continuing despite the great competition offered by varied metropolitan forms of entertainment.

The 1972 schedule shows the Lake County Fair listed for July 26 to 30. The DuPage event is set for July 27 to 30. The last of the area fairs will be the Will County Fair, August 24 to 27.

The first day of the Lake County Fair has been designated "4-H Club Day." Activities for the day include judging of 4-H exhibits, Pony and English horse shows, judging of home economics classes, tractor pulling contest, horse pulling contest and the crowning of "Miss Lake County Fair."

Second day activities include 4-H Western horse show, rodeo, fireworks, and judging of open classes of beef, swine and sheep.

The third day events include a special youth horse show, rodeo, fireworks, judging of dairy cattle and rabbits, judging of special livestock classes of beef, dairy, sheep and swine.

Fourth day activities include Registered Quarter Horse show, sale of the champion beef, swine and sheep, parade, rodeo and fireworks.

On the last day, activities will be highlighted by the Appaloosa Horse Show. Other activities include farm and heavy tractor pulling contest, fitting and shearing contest of livestock for young people, parade and the Demolition Derby.

News Briefs

Towns swap sweeper

MOKENA — As a part of a program to keep the village tidy, Mokena rented Frankfort's mechanized sweeper last week and will repeat the performance from time to time.

Mayor Will Tuttle suggested that business houses could help by keeping sidewalks swept in front of their stores.

In the discussion it was decided to reassess the cost of weed cutting vacant lots and increase the rate charged. The rate has been $10.50 an hour. As a result many owners have found it cheaper to have the village do the job than to have it done themselves.

Village employees have other things to do than provide vacant lot owners with weed cutting service, it was brought out. A sharp increase in the price, it was hoped, might encourage the property holders to get the job done themselves.

Legion picks delegates

FRANKFORT — Bobzin-Swinford Post, American Legion, and its Woman's Auxiliary of Frankfort, will each send a delegate to the state conventions which will be held at Chicago July 12-16. Kenneth Oetter will represent the post and Mrs. Lois Burkett the auxiliary.

The Legionnaires will hold their convention sessions in the Palmer House; the Auxiliary will hold their meetings at the Sherman Hotel.

This will be the 54th state convention of the two organizations. The Legion's annual ball and frolic will be held in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House the night of July 14; the Commander and President's dinner will be in the same place July 15 and the annual parade is slated for 1 p.m. Sunday, July 16, down Michigan Avenue. The reviewing stand will be in front of the Art Institute. Mayor Richard J. Daley and the county board president, George W. Dunne, will welcome delegates. At the business session July 14, Gov. Ogilvie will be the speaker.

At the business meeting July 15 the speaker will be Olin E. Teague, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee at Washington.

Community leader dies

FRANKFORT — Funeral services were conducted here Sunday afternoon from the Frankfort Community Chapel for Raymond Warning, 76, a lifelong resident of Frankfort who died last Friday, June 30, following a long illness.

Uniformed members of Joliet Commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar, of which Mr. Warning was a past commander, took part in the services. He also was a member of Mt. Joliet Lodge, No. 42, A.F. & A.M., Joliet Council, No. 82, Royal and Select Masters, and Joliet Chapter, No. 27, Royal Arch Masons.

He was active in community affairs for many years and was a former member of the Frankfort school board. Back in 1929 Mr. Warning embarked in the farm implement business in which he was engaged for 15 years, when he began the operation of buses. For some 20 years he operated the Gold Star Lines between Joliet, Frankfort, Chicago Heights and Hammond and later became associated with his sons in Warning Chevrolet, and Warning Charter Service.

Two sons survive, Stanley and Glenn, the latter mayor of Frankfort. Also surviving are four grandsons and two great-grandsons. Mr. Warning was preceded in death by his wife, Mabel, and a son, Wendell.

Memorials to Masonic organizations or the Frankfort United Methodist Church were suggested by the family. Interment was in Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Fire chief has new job

MOKENA — Mokena Fire Chief Fred Rauch has been named deputy defense director by Director Russell Bennett. The request that he be authorized to name an assistant was authorized by the village board.

It was pointed out that fire departments play a major role in the civil defense program, especially in the event disaster strikes a community.

New road rules coming

SPRINGFIELD — A new booklet, really a revised edition of the Rules of the Road manual, will be issued the latter part of this month, it has been announced by John W. Lewis, secretary of state.

The Rules of the Road is the booklet studied by drivers prior to their examination for an operator's license. Lewis said the new booklet will include a group of study questions, similar to those asked on the written portion of the drivers examination, changes in law affecting ownership and operation of motor vehicles enacted since publication of the last edition, and more graphic and effective presentation of other material.

The exact date of distribution of the booklet is still contingent upon press time and delivery schedules, Lewis said.

Phillips Oil Co. gives brothers service award

MOKENA — Fred and Louis Rauch of the Mokena Oil Co. were the recipients Wednesday of Community Service Awards from Phillips Petroleum Co. for outstanding achievement in community service.

The awards were presented by J.M. "Jim" Nelms, Division Manager for the Phillips 66 Chicago Sales Office. Also present for the presentation were G.E. Offerdahl, District Manager, and Dan McNeil, District Sales Representative.

In presenting the awards, Nelms stated "These awards for meritorious community service are made to distributors of Phillips products for unusual community services that bring credit to the individual or his organization. It is truly a tribute to the individual for service to his fellowman above and beyond the call of duty."

Offerdahl explained that nominations for the award are obtained from letters from customers calling special attention to an individual, for from recommendations of the division sales managers. A special committee periodically makes the selections of those to receive the distinction of being a Community Service Award winner, he said.

He listed the activities of Fred Rauch as: volunteer fireman for 15 years, and recently elected fire chief; four-year term on the village board; past commander of Am-Vets Post 183; active participant in the Phillips Petroleum Co. "Pitch, Hit and Throw Program."

Louis Rauch's activities were listed as: service on the auxiliary police force for three years; chairman of the zoning board; member of the board of directors of the Lions Club; president of the Church Council and was recently responsible for securing a $25,000 church remodeling grant.

Alternate members are Linda Homering, Dean Hunyady, Joni Schiek and Craig Warning.

The choir is already looking forward to next season. Anyone wishing to have this group play should contact Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Harling, 312-479-5759.

Hearings study freeway route

WILL COUNTY — Two public hearings to discuss alternate locations for the proposed South Suburban Freeway (FA Route 433) between New Lenox, Will County and Park Forest, Cook County, have been scheduled by the Illinois Department of Transportation, secretary William F. Cellini announced recently.

The hearings will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 25, in the Lincolnway High School on U.S. Route 30 in New Lenox and Thursday, July 27 at Rich Township High School (east campus) on Sauk Trail in Park Forest.

The South Suburban Freeway is an east-west highway which will connect Calumet expressway with the proposed Lake-Will freeway. The study area in which the alternate corridors are located extends from Sauk Village in the east to New Lenox in the west and varies in width from three to five miles.

The freeway to be discussed is one of several being planned under Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's program to construct a 1,950-mile network to supplement the interstate system in Illinois.

Maps and drawings showing the proposed improvement will be on display prior to, during and following the hearings for inspection by the public. The displays may also be viewed and copied at informational meetings which will be held in the communities in the study area (at the specific request of and at times designated by the municipal officials) and at the Chicago office of the Illinois Department of Transportation, 300 N. State St., following the public hearing up to August 11.

Cellini said that the public is invited to participate in the hearings. Statements, written and oral, may be presented during the hearings. Written statements may also be mailed or delivered after the hearings to the Illinois division of highway's Chicago office, with the final date of submission being August 11.

A Draft Environmental Impact Statement (a report discussing the effect of the project on the environment) will be available in the department's office for public inspection and copying. The Draft Environmental Impact Statement will be discussed and available for viewing by the public at the public hearings.

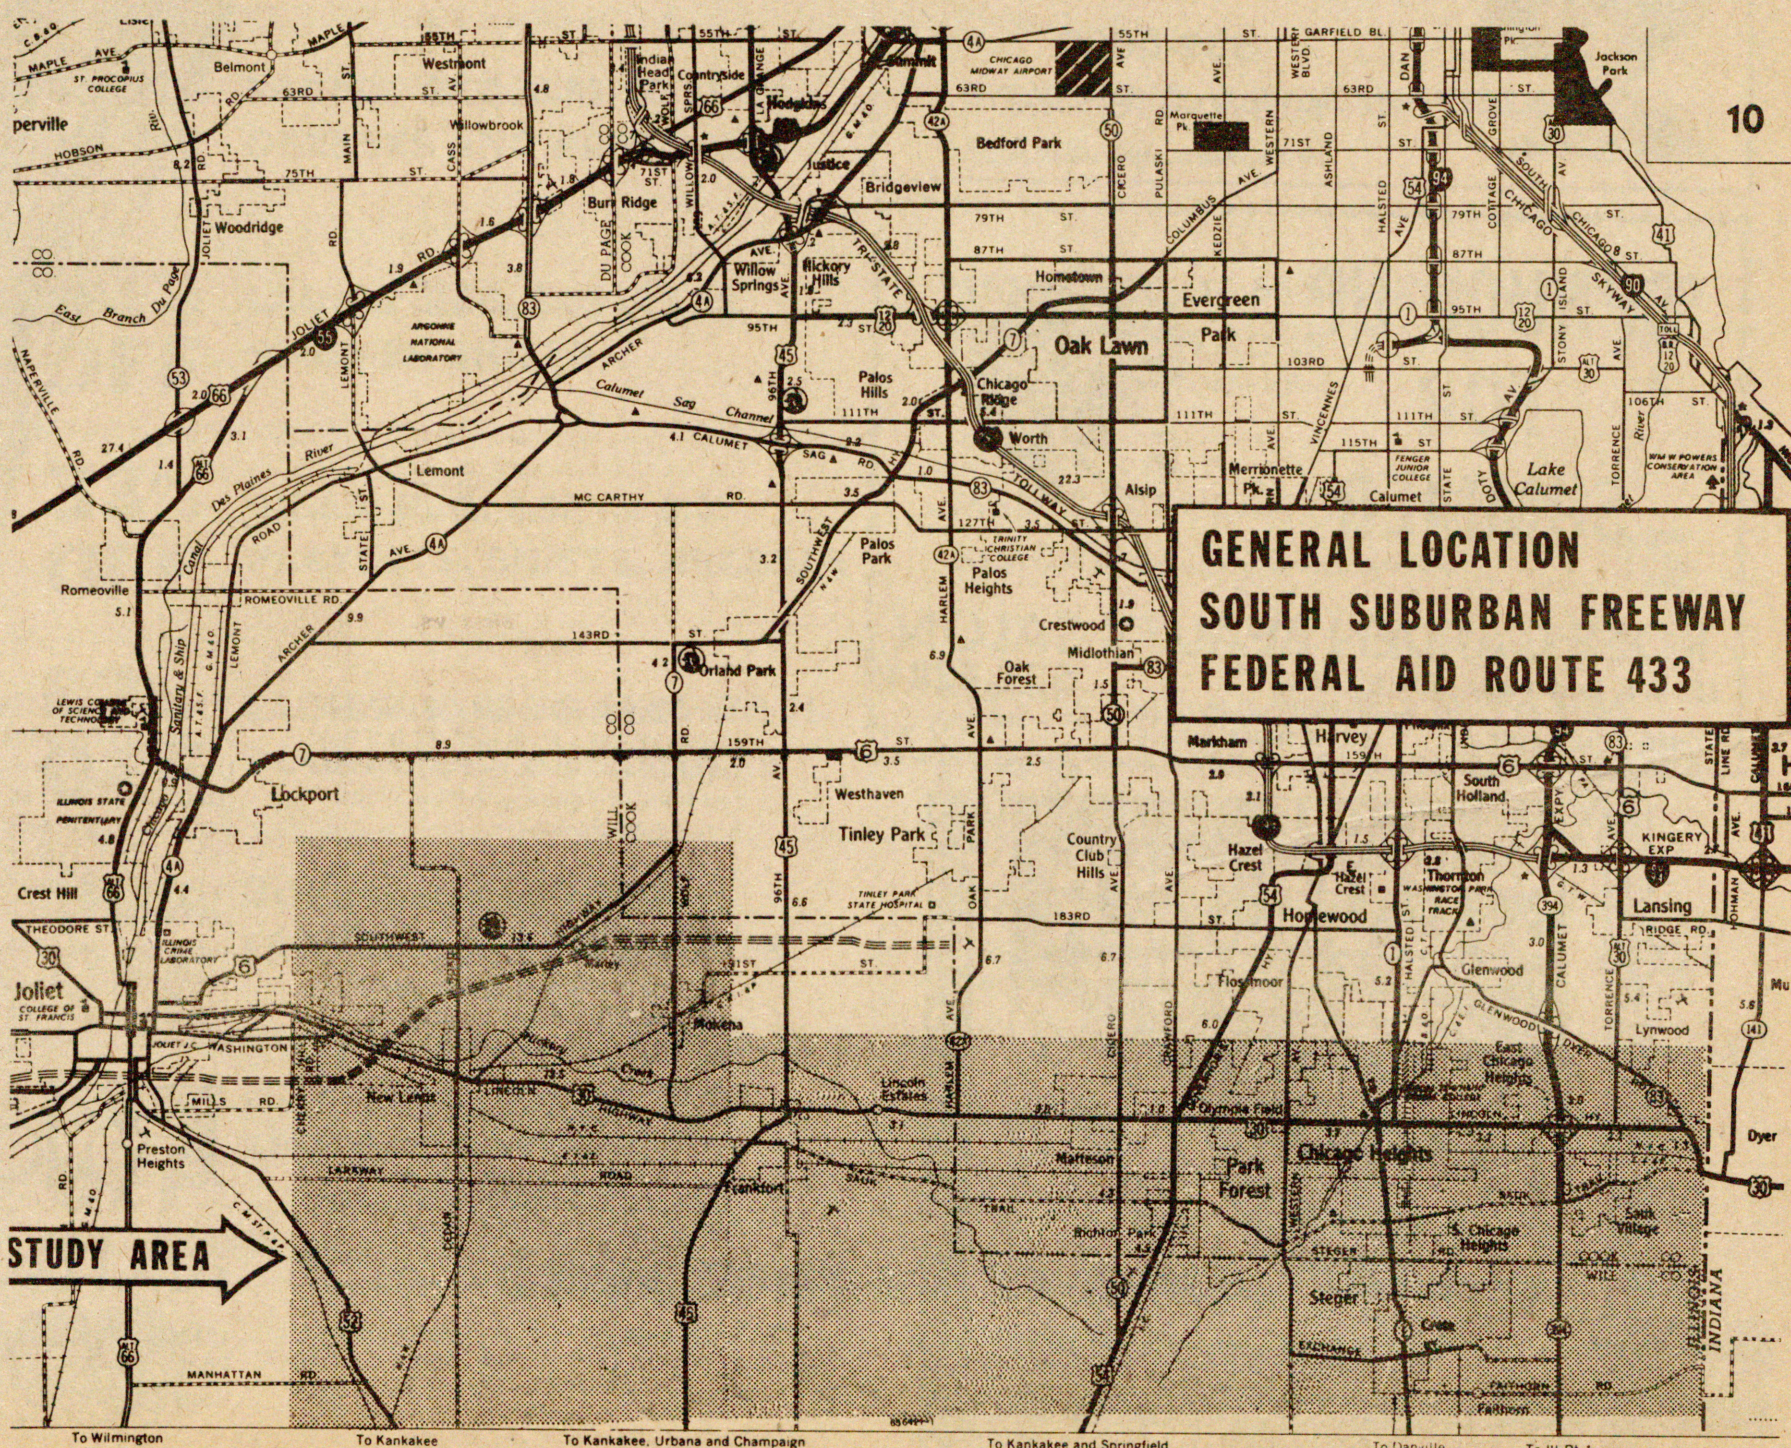

The tentative schedules for right of way acquisition and construction will be discussed at the hearings. The department's Relocation Assistance and-

Payments Program, available to anyone displaced as a direct result of the construction of this project, will also be discussed.

Marriage — a full time hobby

By Barbara Mayer

Marriage today is an institution under attack — a way of life teetering on the brink of becoming outmoded and giving way to free love, communal living, unisex or a liberation from all ties with another human being.

To anyone who picks up a newspaper, listens to the radio or tunes in the television, it is obvious that marriage is sick—maybe even dying—from the proliferation of marriage doctors, counselors, seers, quacks and cure-alls.

The percentage of marriages that end in divorce is climbing above the often-quoted one third and may soon reach one half.

But there is at least one small nucleus of people in the Chicago metropolitan area who are strongly committed to marriage and are working to keep it alive—the Chicago Marriage Encounter movement.

To those unacquainted with the movement, the simplest way to describe an Encounter weekend is two and a half days of uninterrupted communication that helps married couples find themselves.

The movement began in Spain, and spread to this country in 1960. It has since mushroomed to involve couples throughout Chicago and its suburbs. Marriage Encounter weekends are held almost every other week all year around at various locations, most of them retreat houses, convents or seminaries in suburban areas.

When my husband Don and I arrived in LaGrange for our first experience with an encounter, we were just like the other 17 couples gathered there: we didn't know what to expect, and we were wishing we had stayed home on this particular rainy Friday night.

We soon found that we were the most "newlywed" couple there. Marries just seven months, we met couples who had gone through two, ten, even 25 years together. Many of them had eight or nine children, home with a babysitter for the weekend: and Don and I decided they had an ulterior motive for coming to the encounter—escape!

The basic purpose of the encounter is to provide married people with a chance to really communicate on deep, personal level—the leader couples called it "dialoguing"—because so many husbands and wives can't, or don't, take time for this kind of personal contact.

One couple who attended the encounter said the only way they can talk without interruptions from the kids or someone else is to lock themselves in the bathroom!

A marriage encounter "team" consists of three leader couples and a Roman Catholic priest. Although the movement invites couples of all faiths, the atmosphere of the weekend is predominantly Catholic, particularly since the weekend ends with a mass.

The leader couples are couples who began by making their own marriage encounter and took special training courses to help other couples experience the same enhanced communication, self-knowledge and love.

The weekend follows a demanding schedule: ten conferences, followed by individual meditation sessions, followed by "Conjugal dialogue," punctuated by meals and short breaks.

The conferences begin by directing the husband and wife to focus on themselves, their own faults and good points and how they effect the relationship. The focus then moves to the spouse and some of the classic problems of marriage: money, sex, children and personality clashes.

The weekend is so completely structured that Don and I felt at first we would get little out of it—but we soon changed our minds. In the course of our "Conjugal dialogues," we were finding things out about each other that we never knew before: it was like a reliving of our early dating and engagement, when every confidence is a new and exciting discovery.

By Saturday night, we found ourselves holding hands like 18-year-olds, and noticed some of the other couples, even the 25 year veterans, doing the same thing.

We had a beautiful candlelight dinner, with wine and hors-d'oeuvres beforehand, because the lead couples knew from experience how to create a romantic and sociable atmosphere.

On Sunday morning, we were awakened at 7:30 a.m. by the strains of "I Know I'll Never Find Another You" outside our door: the leader couples were providing a "singing alarm clock" to prevent anyone from sleeping through the morning conferences.

A marriage encounter weekend attempts to form habits—so that the efforts to "dialogue" will be carried on after the weekend comes to an end.

Couples with real "problem" marriages are not encouraged to attend encounters because there is no help provided by professionals, such as doctors, counselors and psychiatrists. But the encounter does encourage married people, to an extent, to be their own doctors, diagnose the problems that are keeping them apart, and share in the compromises required to solve them.

The symbol of the Marriage Encounter Movement—two hands reaching out to touch each other—gives the central concept in a nutshell—only by reaching out to touch each other deeply can two people keep their love—and their marriage—alive.

Orland will provide neighbor with water

TINLEY PARK - ORLAND PARK—In one of the first major steps in a good Neighbor Policy Orland Park will sell water to Tinley Park. The Tinley Park Board of Trustees has approved purchasing the water.

This "hands across 159th street" move is being made to insure a more even distribution of water throughout the Village of Tinley Park until that village receives Chicago water.

Orland Trustee John Barker, who has been instrumental in negotiating the arrangement with Tinley trustee Richard Durkin, said the sale will not affect the water supply for the rest of the village or Orland Park. "We have plenty of water", said Barker. The water for Tinley will come from the water tower near 154th and Harlem which presently furnishes only the Catalina subdivision.

Tinley Park expects to purchase Chicago water from Oak Lawn via Oak Forest. Final negotiations therefore appear to be dependant on the decision of Oak Forest to purchase Chicago water.

In the meantime Orland Park will sell Tinley 200,000 gallons per day. Tinley would tie in east of Harlem at 159th Restaurant. The water would be metered.

The water tower at 154th and Harlem was built and paid for by Catalina Builders as part of the pre-annexation agreement, and turned over to the Village of Orland. It was opened March 16, 1970 and is supplied by a shallow and a deep well.

At present only the shallow 517 foot well is in operation serving Catalina, and can furnish 280,000 gallons per day. Orland Park plans to purchase another pump to activate the deep 1900 foot well which can deliver in excess of 1½ million gallons per day.

Edmund Burke and Associates have been instructed to check the engineering of the wells. Orland Park hopes to divert the water pumped from the shallow well for the use of Tinley Park, and serve Orland Park from the deep well.

The arrangements will have a two way advantage for the Villages. Orland Park will receive revenue from the sale of the water which will cover the cost of the new pump. At the same time it will be activating the deep well for the use of all of Orland when needed.

Tinley Park will be saved the need to build an interim reservoir to maintain even water distribution until the time Chicago water is available.

Preliminary talks in all phases of village cooperation between Orland Park Village President Melvin Doogan and Tinley Park Mayor John Dunn resulted in the water discussions. Assisting in the negotiations was Orland Trustee Roger Frantz.

Fernway annexation ruling set for today

By Gertrude Gallagher
ORLAND PARK — Once again, and then once over again, the familiar ring of the word "continuance" is coupled with the Fernway annexation.

Judge Harry Comerford told attorneys June 30 that he would reserve ruling on the case until Wednesday, July 5. This was the second continuance within a week which had attorneys Leonard Carriere and Ronald Glink expecting a decision on June 27.

The case, which has run like an overlong scenario since last year, has had many such continuances. This is not unusual in a legal proceeding where each attorney is accorded specific time limits to prepare necessary and sequenced legal documents, and a busy judge may elect to further study the evidence.

Carriere, attorney for the Fernway residents, presented a second petition on Feb. 17 to annex to Orland after asking dismissal of his first petition. The Village of Westhaven objected through its Attorney Glink.

At the same time a pending, but separate, petition to annex Fernway to the Village of Orland Park was pending. This petition was withdrawn on May 17 and Orland Park is now relying on the Carriere petition. Carriere had requested Orland Park withdraw in order to null one of the Westhaven objections.

The issue of contiguity may well be that upon which the judge bases his finding. The petition now before him claims contiguity through a narrow strip of land which bypasses a 70-acre parcel known as the Silvestri property.

The issue is tied into a Gordian knot because, although a court ruling declared last fall that the Silvestri tract could properly be annexed to Orland Park (which would make Fernway clearly contiguous), Westhaven has appealed that decision. Briefs of the petitioners on the Silvestri Appeal will be filed in the next few weeks with oral arguments held in the fall.

Waste disposal solutions vary

In the third in a series of articles on the solid waste disposal problem HERALD Staff Writer Mary Straub interviews area village administrators. by Mary Straub (Third in a series)

Our past two articles have generalized disposal methods which aim to strike a harmonious relationship between necessity and preservation of environment. Specifically, here is what is being done by the Southwest suburban planners to prevent a future pile up of garbage on our streets.

Last May, Mayor Fred Dumke of Oak Lawn met with Joseph Coglianese, Mayor of Chicago Ridge and Anthony Vacco of Evergreen Park to discuss a suburban coalition to study the feasibility of building an incinerator to handle the area's solid waste disposal.

Dumke stated that a catalyst burner can run for two years. Constructed inside a building, it emits virtually no odor, and garbage itself is not the fuel. If it were, the result would be a soggy mess. Instead, the residue is a slag the size of a pea whose utility is under study. This type of burner creates saleable steam which can be used to heat homes.

As for location of the incinerator, Dumke said a site of 5 acres or less would serve 10 communities and it would need to be situated close to an outlet for its residue. No location has been chosen for the proposed incinerator, for it is now only in its most preliminary stages of discussion.

Commented Dumke, "We are not saying we have the answer at our fingertips when we suggest incineration. We are, however, cognizant of the rapid growth of the suburbs and the resulting increased refuse. A coalition may provide us with many insights to our mutual problems."

The HERALD has interviewed some of the mayors of our neighboring communities, and they unanimously express a willingness to meet in order that an adequate and feasible plan for coping with the rising mounds of garbage might be found.

Mayor John Dunn of Tinley Park remarked, "We are literally burying ourselves in trash. The solid waste land fill method is not totally satisfactory. If an incinerator met with EPA regulations, it could be our ultimate answer."

Oak Forest's Mayor, Bernard Kelly prefers a recycling program, for

"Reclamation is more than attractive. The refuse would be separated at the plant. To keep costs down, the homeowner might have to separate his refuse before pick-up, and we wonder whether this cooperation would be forthcoming." Kelly would, however, be interested in Dumke's plan.

Mayor Chester Ranczek of Crestwood also will meet with the other mayors if invited. As former owner of a scavenger company, he is aware of the critical situation facing village administrators, and in turn, the scavenger companies.

He said, "I'm not really sure that incineration is the answer, but the Chicago plant located at 1400 W. Pershing Road is as nuisance free and pollution free as possible."

He was referring to Southwest Incinerator, one of four in Chicago owned by and operated solely for the city's use. It is 10 years old, and it handles 1,200 tons of refuse per day.

Said Edward Lucas, Engineer in Charge, "It is relatively free of pollution compared to raw refuse. It meets EPA specifications and is even so being upgraded and improved."

Here, the garbage is the fuel. Metals are salvaged and sold as a by-product to dealers. The ash or residue is then used in landfill operation.

Mayors Kerkstra of Worth, Joseph Stuk of Country Club Hills and Edward Hail of Palos Hills commented favorably on the coalition of municipal governments. Said Hail, "I'm for any non-polluting system that gets the job done." Stuk is very much interested in the potential of an incinerator because Country Club Hills is experiencing some difficulties finding dumping sites.

What do these and other southwest suburbs now do with their collections? The villages license scavenger companies. Their heavy trucks pick up the smelly loads we set on the curbs, and they go belching and chugging away — but, to where?

Landfill sites are located at 11th and Mannheim, 107th and Mannheim, 123rd and California, & 131st and Calumet Expressway. These and other sites are expected to be filled within a year, probably less. An Arlington Heights landfill with only three to five years of life left may be prolonged with the addition of an incinerator. Other alternatives are being reviewed, as they are to be soon in the sited above.

Scavenger companies are concerned about the refuse plight, both from the viewpoint of the present limitations concerning means, and economical factors affecting them. Mrs. J. Baker of the Baker Disposal Service in Evergreen Park explained, "Our costs average out to $2.75 per home monthly. This is the average except in wooded areas of Palos where it is more difficult to make pick-ups."

She continued, "Some areas — Oak Forest, for example — have unlimited service and it is up to us to haul away even large appliances and find a place to dispose of them."

Similarly, Mel Goder & Son in Markham, said, "We can hardly handle the mass of refuse that we're expected to. There is no burning at site, so un-compacted trees and brush must be buried."

Bill Benstre, solicitor for Meyer Brothers Service echoed the sentiments, "No one wants garbage disposed of at their front door, I realize that. But, the prices can't stay down if the distance for trucking the stuff away becomes great. We're looking for the happy solution where the acceptable site is matched by continued low costs."

Crestwood's Mayor Ranczek noted that his village supplies free unlimited service to its residents and the service is costing the village more per home as each year passes. "One of the larger scavenger companies has applied for a building permit here for a compactor operation which would reduce the density of loads collected. We still need a place to dump it though."

Many citizens are beginning to react like one village secretary who said, "I'm feeling guilty about the mounds of garbage my family generates each week. It looks as though adjustments have to be made, both in refuse output and means of disposal." This at least carries the seeds of an ultimate workable solution.

Developer asks site rezoning for station

ORLAND PARK — Plans to build a Checker Oil Gas Station on the northwest corner of 159th Street and 80th Avenue were told at a public hearing before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals on June 30.

Details of the use of the one acre tract were told by Joseph West, 14557 West Ave., Orland Park, who was speaking on behalf of the developer, Western Development Corporation of Oakbrook. The developer and oil company were seeking a rezoning from R-3 single family to B-2 restricted service.

In an amended petition the oil company sought the rezoning to include a convenient shopping center.

George Brumis, president of Western Development, said his firm developed the Jewel-Osco at 159th Street and Central Avenue in Oak Forest, and is in the process of developing a Jewel-Osco in Tinley Park at 171st Street and Harlem Avenue among other ventures. Brumis said in light of the commercial development along 159th Street and its being enlarged to a five lane highway at that point the "highest and best use" for the land is a business use.

West testified there was no objection to the rezoning from the Village of Tinley Park provided he stipulate that access would be provided across the west and the north of the lot in the event that property to the west or north were ever developed for a shopping center.

Paul Schreiber, Jr., attorney representing the Village of Orland Park placed no objection to the rezoning but was granted 21 days to consider placing the village's position in writing.

John Hannigan, vice-President of Checker Oil, said the station would only furnish gasoline and have no auxiliary services. He plans to use a county approved septic system. Ivan Janota, 159th Street and 80th Avenue, directed the board's attention to the bad drainage problem at the corner.

Hearing Officer John Kirkland took the testimony and said it would be placed before the entire Zoning Board. A decision is not expected before August.

Mayors to act against bill

ORLAND PARK—Village President Melvin Doogan will join other suburban mayors in an attempt to obtain relief from a recently passed House Bill in the Illinois Legislature.

House Bill 3636 would provide for the exclusive exercise by the State of the power to regulate various professions, vocations and occupations.

Municipalities claim the bill would pre-empt the right of home rule and right of a municipality to regulate and license. One major concern is that the unscrupulous real estate developer need not worry about local rules and regulations.

Among the professions and occupations that would be regulated by the state are architects, chiropractors, dental surgeons, funeral directors, medical services, surveyors, psychologists, engineers, pharmacists, beauticians, realtors, etc.

The officials of municipalities will meet June 29 at St. Catherine of Sienna Hall in Oak Park to discuss measures for counteracting the bill.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER BY JIM HIRSCH

Independence is a day by day privilege that must be earned. It is not a concession we can take for granted. Let's not forget this is an historical significance of July 4th.

In our American way of life, we have more privileges than any people on earth. We are privileged to worship God where and when we wish . . . privileged to work where we choose . . . privileged to educate ourselves to any degree we wish . . . privileged to qualify for better jobs . . . privileged to seek and earn better living conditions . . . privileged to travel where and when we wish . . . privileged to express our thoughts, to agree or disagree with our fellow men.

The prelude to our privileged life dates back to 10 years before the American Revolution when Patrick Henry shouted his immortal words, "Give me liberty or give me death." And ever since, our privileges have been bought and blessed with the blood and sacrifice of valiant men. As heirs of our heroic dead, would it not be fitting and proper for all of us to bend our knees and fold our hands on July 4th — and give thanks to God for the privilege of being an American? . . .

Tinley Park Village Trustee and Army Reserve Captain Patrick Rea phones order to fire howitzer from command post during Battery C's recent training maneuver at Camp McCoy.

Gert on the firing line

Long walk to ladies' room

HERALD Reporter Gertrude Gallagher continues with her reports on the recent bivouac in Wisconsin she spent with Army Reserve Unit Battery C from Joliet.

(Part three of a series)

CAMP MCCOY, WIS. — Approaching Camp McCoy is like nearing Wall's Drug Store in the Badlands or Harrah's in Las Vegas. You can't miss it for the signs. That our jeep was not stopped and searched was a disappointment. Instead the MP waved us through just as if soldiers with hatpins and white sneakers came past his post regularly.

The camp was so vast with winding streets of barracks that I didn't realize there was anyone else but our own battalion there until the next morning when I saw long convoys leaving with headlights on. The camp is primarily used for training National Guard and reserve units.

Settling down in the barracks took some time. Captain Pat Rea called his men for a briefing in one barracks.

I can now say a barracks has got to be better than sleeping outdoors, I think. There were about 25 cots on one floor with probably the same number upstairs. Lighting was direct — Bare bulb. The open bathroom door showed rows of sinks and toilets. The toilets were not in any booths or stalls. Just all lined up like little white soldiers with black crowns. There was no toilet paper.

It was an impressive plumbing display!

We had a quick lunch in the mess hall. All of the men we met were very thoughtful, and seemed eager to tell us about their work. Little things like one young captain bringing me a tray he had filled with a hot dog and trimmings were characteristic of their thoughtfulness to this female who had found herself in a strange male world.

After lunch it was out to Firing Point 3 and the BIG GUN!

Everyone seemed to know his job and went about doing it, from laying telephone wire to setting up posts to positioning the GUN.

The GUN, which has a range of 15 miles, was mounted on a tank-like platform with threads easily as long as twice my living room. There was a place about as big as a round garbage can imbedded in the left front where the driver of the GUN could position himself.

Near the gun were the projectiles of TNT in six packs called pellets. Each projectile weighed 200 pounds and cost $200. The battery was to fire 50 of these projectiles during the day and night.

The projectiles were tapered cylinders about three feet long into which a three inch calibrated timing cone is screwed.

When the GUN was properly lined up a blade in the rear resembling that on the front of a bulldozer, called a spade, was properly set deep in the ground to take up the force of the recoil.

Sergeants Long and Grumley had told me you don't just point and shoot as I had thought. Each shot takes much planning. Within close distance of the "enemy" is stationed the Forward Observer — a danger — our past to have in actual combat. Not only is one close to the enemy but the enemy knows it. Also, a miscalculation might be embarrassing in putting the Forward Observer under fire of his own GUN.

The observer radios the location of the enemy to the Fire Director Center (FDC), positioned closer to the GUN, where vertical and horizontal chart operators determine the ordnance and abscissa coordinates of the enemy. Variants such as altitude of the gun in relation to the terrain (site), wind, angle of arc, power of explosive, etc. also must be considered.

The computer at the FDC determines the quadrant (elevation) that the barrel should be lifted, and the turn to the right or left (deflection). Orders are then radioed to the gun crew of 12 who make the corrections and fire. The Forward Observer phones the result of the shot.

With a smooth motion the projectile was hoisted to the GUN by a lift, and placed in the barrel. A chain driven rammer tucked it in place. With precision movements the crew placed the powder charge back of the projectile — large or small depending on the range and lift they were seeking as the projectile would be forced out the barrel end. With what can only be described as the grace of a symphony conductor lowering his baton to begin an overture one gunner swings the GUN'S back door (breach block) shut and slaps down a latch in one continuous motion.

Now the rope (lanyard) was attached to the firing pin and the GUN was ready for the command to fire.

At the command of the executive officer the lanyard was pulled while members of the crew put fingers in their ears over the earplugs.

After watching this procedure and following the course of about 20 projectiles as they emerged from the barrel until they disappeared in the sky, I was asked if I wanted to pull the lanyard on a firing.

There I was at Firing Point Three with my steel pot helmet and my sneakers about to fire the most accurate piece of heavy artillery in the world. No Woman Libber could ask for more!

Was I impressed? Was I awed?

Lord, I was scared! Visions of the instant collapse of the "One Hoss Shay" and the unexpected breaking of the "Bridge of San Luis Rey" were in my mind. Also the government release I had signed. Some day this wonderfully working machine, this well coordinated gun crew would arrive at the point where a bolt would break. Would I be at the lanyard when the shot would fail to be heard around the world because it had buried itself in me?

Well, if I were going to be in this man's army I couldn't let it be said I wouldn't do what a young man would do.

At this precise moment a Red Cross truck came up. Was someone else worried?

With lanyard stretched tautly across my stomach while facing away from the barrel of the GUN as directed I slowly turned at the exec's order of "FIRE", thus pulling the firing pin.

Good Heavens! What a BOOM! I couldn't believe I shot the whole thing. That was no rice krispie!

The men of the entire battery clapped and cheered. Old White Sneakers hadn't blown up the troops after all. The Red Cross truck moved along elsewhere.

I took a few hours from the platform of the GUN and descended.

During the day there were several unavoidable delays calling for a halt of firing (Fire Check). No one seemed to get into a flap over them but adapted easily. At one time the chain drive on the rammer broke. With no wasted time several men manned a long and apparently heavy hand rammer for each firing.

At 6:30 (1830?) Sgt. Uffelman drove us in a jeep to the officers' mess where there was a ladies room. Unknown to us two truck loads of soldiers were following the Jeep under the impression it was going back to the barracks. Now let me say this. Those Women's Libbers looking to draft women better consider how it feels to walk along a long porch to a ladies' room with two truckloads of tired, dirty, hot and hungry soldiers hanging out of 2½-ton trucks watching while waiting for the convoy to move on.

It isn't hard to figure out why it's called "mess".

Oh, it is; it is! Slab of meat loaf. Splop of potatoes. Toss of salad. Whoops! Bad eye there, fella. Try again.

Salad dressing in an old coffee can. Canned peaches emptied into a vat. Iced tea in another vat. Sandwich cookies served in their original cartons. Pot-pourri of salt, sugar, cream, butter, pickle, catsup, mustard, milk and coffee — one blending into another on the "buffet" — a picnic table.

But after a day under the sun at Firing Point Three it tasted as good as if it were Maxim's of Paris. So, who needs candlelight, gold rimmed plates and chilled wine, si vous plait?

What a blast this day had been for the White Sneakered Den Mother of Battery C!

Sandburg students visit Livonia, Detroit suburb

ORLAND PARK — A trip to Livonia, Michigan was Phase I of a Domestic Exchange Program with another high school, participated in by seven Carl Sandburg students during the week of May 14.

These exchanges are designed to expose students to other students in different geographic and socio-economic areas around the country so that they may learn by living with others.

The exchange to Livonia was the result of several other post-poned trips. Livonia is a suburb of about 100,000 near Detroit, and although they were remarkably similar to our area, in some respects it was different than ours, according to the exchanges. "The school facilities for instance were better," commented one student, "probably because the school system was located in an older community than ours." The exchange students went to four different high schools, although they were all in the same school district.

The exchanges were Kimberly Emmerick, Laura Harris, Gwen Horejsch, Toni Parr, Anthony Salinas, David Schwartz, and Michael Waugh.

One of the exchange students commented after the trip that the most significant thing he gained personally was "the ability to become close friends with people that I wasn't already involved with in school. I was accepting people because I had to, and by the end of the week because I wanted to."

The same student advised that the visit affected him because he learned "a lot about my personal philosophy, and I gained a more positive attitude for reaching out to people."

Phase II of the Domestic Exchange, a project of the Student Council of Sandburg high school in cooperation with the Southwest YMCA, and the YMCA in Michigan, will take place in the fall when students from Livonia, Michigan will attend Carl Sandburg high school, and live with their host families for one week.

Those who worked on this project were Miss Sue Hoerman, Chairman Student Council, and Miss Cindy Halbach of the Exchange Committee, also Charles Swearingen, Student Council Advisor, and Don Horn, Exchange Consultant, Southwest YMCA. Mason Martin, Sandburg dean, accompanied the students on their trip.

In addition to attending school with their hosts, the students visited the Rough Plant, a part of the Ford Motor Company, and some of the students went into Detroit to see a baseball game, the Detroit Tigers against the Cleveland Indians.

Another FHA group assists home buyers

KANKAKEE — The Farmers Home Administration is another source for loans to build or buy homes in the open country or rural towns of up to 10,000 population, according to S. Dale Orman, supervisor of the Kankakee-Will County area for the bureau.

"In families where both husband and wife are employed," Orman explained, "the new policy permits half of the wife's gross income to be excluded in determining whether the total family income is within the maximum limit for loan eligibility."

He gives an example. The husband is the principal source of income with $7,500. The wife earns $3,000. His entire income, plus half of his wife's, or $1,500, totals $9,000. This is within the Illinois' moderate income level of $9,000 so the family may be eligible for a Farmers Home Administration loan, it was said.

Families with somewhat higher incomes also may qualify, it was said, based upon standard adjustments. In determining eligibility the total family income is reduced by five per cent and a further reduction is made for each dependent child.

"The new policy will assist families in which the wife's income is needed to improve the standard of living," Orman said. "The change will in no way affect our expanding service to families with lower incomes."

Applications and inquiries may be directed to S. Dale Orman at the Farm Home Administration office, 1953 E. Court St., Marycrest Plaza, Kankakee, 60901.

Penny saved created villa

SOUTHWEST — The pennies and good hearts of Lithuanian immigrants made possible the building of Holy Family Villa buildings and grounds on 123rd Street, Northwest of Orland Park.

The Villa marked its 25th anniversary on July 4th with an outdoor mass celebrated on the 240 acres of rolling land by principal concelebrant Bishop Nevin Hayes O. Carm.

Exiled Bishop Vincent Brizgys of Kaunas, Lithuania delivered the homily. The Villa houses 108 aging residents all of whom are more than 80 years old. A staff of two priests, nine sisters of St. Casimir, podiatrist, medical director, five consultants, activity director and 60 employees operates the home under the Rev. Stanley Adomina who has been chaplain and executive director since 1947.

In 1940 when the Lithuanian Catholic Charities, founder of the Villa, pursued its efforts to build the home there was only $9 and a few cents in the treasury. The Charities organization was also instrumental in founding Holy Cross Hospital at 69th and California Streets in Chicago.

A Tinley party

TINLEY PARK — An all day party marked this year's Independence Day festivities. Participants were treated to a tug-of-war, skydivers, free watermelon, a softball game, chariot races and a giant fireworks show.

It all took place at Joe McCarthy Park. Joe himself was on hand and presented the park district with $200.

Tinley Park's Fire Department, who came dressed for duty, won the tug of war. The Jaycees came in second and village officials came in last.

The Bremen Bank Bombers defeated Karson's Kittens in a girl's softball game. The score was 32-11.

DeMolay won the chariot race with Glen Alexander as driver and Russ Sealan and Mike Raitz as "horses." The prize for the best Roman costume went to the Jaycees and the best chariot was judged to have been that of the Fire Department.

$300,000 for missing airport study

Editor James Vesely and Staff Writer Doug Ray of the Arlington Heights Herald have explored the needs and the direction of Chicago's airport dilemma. In a four-part series they will present their findings.

Federal Aviation Administration officials say Chicago soon will need O'Hare Airport plus two more modern jet airports to handle anticipated jet traffic of the 1980s and beyond. The question is where and when these airports will come about.

By James Vesely & Doug Ray
First of a Series

A private consulting firm has been paid $300,000 by the State of Illinois for a mysterious airport study that only a handful of state officials have ever seen. In fact, top Springfield officials are unaware it is finished.

The airport feasibility study to determine the need for a third major airport in Chicago was done by Ralph M. Parsons Co. of Los Angeles in conjunction with an Urbana consulting firm last year. The project was authorized soon after a City of Chicago analysis showed that the airport should be constructed on the floor of Lake Michigan.

State officials were so anxious to have an airport report of their own that no federal monies were sought to help pay for the document.

And although the consulting firm has received payment in full from the state Bureau of the Budget, the report's contents remain as mysterious as in whose hands it now rests.

The Parsons study isn't the first of its kind. Study upon study has been compiled by researchers on the third Chicago airport during the last decade; and millions of dollars have been spent by the City of Chicago and three states in a search — and a race — for the best site for the jetport.

The Parsons Report, entitled Northern Illinois Airport Requirement and Feasibility Study, is the most elusive to the public as well as high-ranking politicians and aeronautics experts.

The state director of aeronautics, Alan Landolt, says he has not seen the report but he believes it is completed.

Jim Reed of the Bureau of the Budget in Springfield, who acknowledged the $300,000 payment, says the study is "in the rough draft stages. . . mostly analytical information."

The Parsons project director in Los Angeles who compiled the documentation says, "we have submitted a great deal of information" to the state.

Contacted in Los Angeles, the project director said the firm has stopped active work on the study since the first of the year. Parsons already "has expended the manpower for the job," he said, adding that the contract was for "labor and man-hours."

He contends that Parsons absorbed the cost of finishing up the work. "We are awaiting consideration from the state on what next," he said.

The Parsons official confirmed that the $300,000 had been paid.

The Los Angeles firm may incorporate the Northern Illinois Airport Study into another report awarded the firm by the State of Illinois, he said.

This one is for a statewide airport study at a cost of $540,000. The firm has 1 1/2 years to complete it.

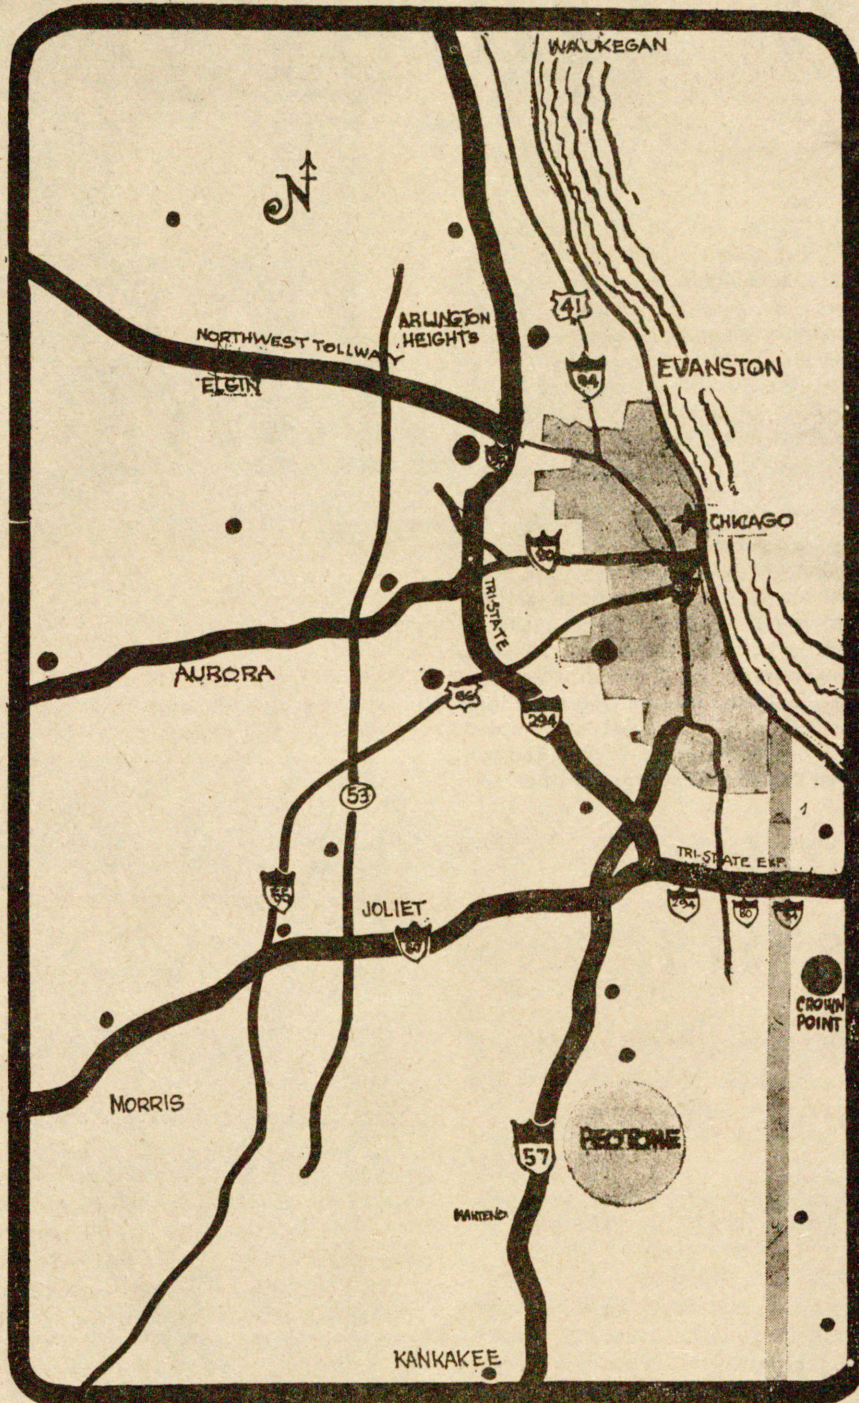

According to state documents, the Northern Illinois Airport Study called for the completion in final draft by March 30, 1971.

Gov. Ogilvie's aides and the Department of Aeronautics have referred all questions regarding the study to John Robson, a special counsel to the governor on transportation and former undersecretary of transportation in former President Johnson's administration.

Robson said copies of the study "are in several state offices," but he does not have one of the documents. He called the study "a very complicated air traffic forecasting problem . . . we've had a lot of trouble getting it out."

According to Robson, the information submitted to the state "is a sophisticated and complex approach," that will be reviewed by state officials, including himself, and a final copy will be released to the public.

He would not give a date for the release but speculated it may take several months.

Two possible sites for Chicago's third major jetport lie only a few miles apart but in different states. A large parcel of land just east of Peotone is being considered, while Indiana officials are seeking the same facility at Crown Point.

Gov. Ogilvie, through his chief counsel Robson, authorized the Northern Illinois Airport Study in 1970, after City of Chicago's own consultants produced feasibility studies showing that the lake airport was technically sound. Robson said several bids were received on the contract.

"The governor wanted to get under way real fast," said a high-ranking state official, who added that no federal funds were sought to help finance the $300,000 bill because of the rush for the study.

The study called for an analysis of future commercial airline needs in Northern Illinois.

The Parsons spokesman acknowledged the contract "was for commercial aviation exclusively." He said a report solely on commercial needs "may not have been the thing to do."

According to state documents given to prospective consulting firms that might acquire the contract in 1970, the purpose of the study was threefold:

—To examine future air traffic demand for the Chicago Metropolitan Area.

—To determine whether and when additional air carrier airport capacity or facilities in Northern Illinois will be required . . . and what alternatives there are to meet these requirements.

—To identify cost of the various alternatives and assess the economic feasibility for new air carrier airport facilities in Northern Illinois.

The Parsons official said "we reexamined the question of a third airport" adding that the "lake concept is perfectly feasible technically but there are environmental and human problems that must be taken into consideration."

He said: "There is no clear answer in the study." Robson said, "We may not be talking about a major airport."

While Illinois already has spent $300,000 and is in the midst of a $540,000 document, other nearby states have compiled similar data in an effort to determine where the third Chicago airport will be located.

Studies by James and Berger Associates of Indianapolis have established the regional airport should be in northwest Indiana near Crown Point, just south of the Gary-Hammond area.

Authorized by the Indiana Aeronautics Commission in 1971, the report compared Crown Point with several locations across the border in Illinois. Crown Point, according to this analysis, was the superior spot for the jetport.

At least three other airport studies have been completed for Indiana officials.

A Milwaukee area airport study is in the works in Wisconsin to determine the need for future airports there. It will be available by the end of the year.

If the Wisconsin document bears out the need for a third airport, the state has a 7-mile-square section of property just west of Kenosha that could readily be condemned for the jet port. It is Bong Field, an abandoned Air Force base where a substantial runway was begun, and sewer and light installations were installed before the Air Force decided the base was unnecessary. The land now is being used by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

"Certainly we could condemn the land," said Kurt Bauer, executive director of the Southeast Wisconsin Planning Commission (SEWERPAC). "But we won't know until the state report is done."

J. E. Wenzel, now retired, was the director of aeronautics in Illinois when the Parsons study was sanctioned, but he recalls several other reports to state officials on the third Chicago airport.

He said experts had pinpointed an area near Peotone, Ill., as a good site for the jetport in Illinois. The land, just east of the small farming community between Joliet and Kankakee and less than 25 miles from Chicago, could tap the industrial Calumet-area market. Rail and highway transportation networks are located there, he added.

At least a half-dozen other Illinois jetport sites were discussed, Wenzel said, including areas southwest of Chicago, north of Evanston, and the Calumet area of Chicago.

He said the first consideration for a third Chicago airport began during Otto Kerner's term as governor and became more serious when Sam Shapiro held a short tenure as governor. The studies have continued into Ogilvie's governorship.

Several private developers have attempted to sell the idea of the jetport to residents of the small Illinois farming community at Peotone. Similar moves have been made by speculators for the Crown Point site in Indiana and at Bong Field in Wisconsin.

All of the proposals have been met with opposition from residents of the areas. But while the residents adamantly are against the jetport near their homes, officials in three states are trying to figure out why each of them needs it.

State boundaries are playing an integral part in the race to secure Chicago's third airport and some of the expensive, state-sponsored studies are considered self-serving and contradictory.

The City of Chicago, until recently, had pushed for a $400 million lake-bottom jetport as the answer to the apparent spiraling demands of air traffic in Chicago.

Mayor Daley now says a new facility won't be necessary until the year 2000. All other feasibility studies have shown that a target date for operation of a third airport is 1985; meaning that construction must begin in five years.

That mysterious $300,000 document being held under wraps by the state or possibly not even completed may provide an insight into the date another jetport will be needed.

The veteran aviation director of Illinois, J. E. Wenzel, contends "there will absolutely be a third airport." But he isn't sure where or when it will be constructed.

"You have to understand that these people put a lot of faith in reports," he said.

Mat kids win Mexico meet

SOUTHWEST — A group of pre-high school wrestlers made their mark on the international scene this week by winning the first annual Pan-American Infintile Wrestling Tournament held in Mexico City.

The team coached by Terry Weber and Larry Stonitsch outscored all 17 teams in the tournament with a total of 37 points. Mexico was second with 32 points and Peru was third with 25 points.

The area team, none of whom are yet 14-years old won six titles, three seconds and a third.

The tournament was free-style type of wrestling, a style relatively unknown in the United States but popular in other countries, and the American team had less than a month of practice in that type of wrestling.

John Jackson took third at 101-pounds, was really a substitute for the regular at that weight. When Jeff Gerdes, the team's regular 101-pounder couldn't make the weight, Jackson was called on to fill in, and responded with a third in his division.

Chip Connor of New Lenox took a second in his division. Matt Dusik took a first along with Bob Guerro, of West Chicago; Lee Goldsmith, Glenview; Bob Porter, Morton Grove and Todd and Pat Stern, of the Joliet Boys Club also captured titles.

Stonitsch coaches the Joliet Boys Club, and Weber is coach of the New Lenox OakView School wrestling team.

Eagles break even for week

ORLAND PARK — The Carl Sandburg summer baseball team came out with a complete split for the week winning two, losing two, and tying one. In the first game of five game week the Eagles Tied Evergreen Park, 6-6. Southpaw Jeff King started and finished the game for Sandburg pitching eight innings and yielding six runs. The story for this game wasn't pitching but hitting as Crane D'lougy went 3-4, two of which were doubles to lead the Eagle attack.

In Sandburg's second contest of the week saw them beating Lockport West, 8-5.

Ron Weiland and Tim Devine were to the hittin heroes for the Eagles, both getting two hits apiece and one and one bases loaded triple by Devine.

The Eagles then proceeded to defeat Rich Central 3-1 on a fine three hitter by Steve Rodeck.

Things took a turn for the worst in a double header against Proviso West Thursday.

In the first game, the Eagles were dumped 7-1 as hurler Tim Sipe took the loss. Poor hitting and lack of defense proved the difference in the game. In the second game the Eagles were defeated 7-3 but found their hitting eyes as Joe Stratta of the Eagles connected for a two run homer. Tom Omera, a promising freshman, was credited with the loss going four innings with King moping up. The Eagles, coached by Ron Mellen, said "Our pitching is still questionable, although pitchers Steve Rodeck and Joe Stratta have really come around."

Coach Mellen also said the hitting isn't what it should be and the defense usually strong point of Sandburg's baseball teams, has been faltering. The Eagles conference record now stands at 6-3, one game out of first. The Eagles next game will be against Oak Lawn Tuesday at Sandburg.

Work for bond approval

Citizens organize in

by Tom Houlihan

TINLEY PARK — The newly-formed Citizens Advisory Committee for School District 140 met last Thursday to plan a strategy that would hopefully lead to the passage of next month's referendum and bond issue. Dick Durkin, a village trustee, was selected as chairman of the committee and subcommittees were organized to handle publicity, coffee meetings, door-to-door promotion, car pools and voter registration.

Durkin said, "The citizens committee is not an arm of the school board. It is not an alternate board. It is a group of concerned citizens trying to communicate to the public the problems of the district and what should be done."

He added that it was important that the referendum be understood, for, "If people don't understand something, they'll vote 'no' rather than not vote at all."

Earlier in the evening, Superintendent John Bannes had explained the two proposals that will be put before the voters on April 4. The first proposal is a $1.2 million bond authorization. The second is money to be paid back on an interest-free loan from the Illinois School Building Commission over a period of 16-3/4 years. That amount is not to exceed $125,000 per year.

In order to qualify for the interest-free loan, Bannes said, District 140 must be within $5,000 of its legal bonding limit. The legal bonding limit is defined as six percent of the district's assessed valuation. The district's assessed valuation is now set at $10,647,602. There are $255,000 in bonds already out, so the district has a bonding power of $383,856.

The $1.2 million figure refers to the district's projected bonding power for the next three to five years. The bonds will be released at intervals during that period. If the bond authorization is passed, the district will be "broke" in terms of bonding power for the next three to five years. It will therefore be eligible for the interest-free loan during that period.

The loan is determined on the amount of classroom space that is needed. Examples given by Bannes showed that projections have set at 26 the number of classrooms that "may" be needed.

Bannes said that District 140 has one of the lowest assessed valuations in the state, since there is virtually no commercial or industrial property in the area.

Bannes added that District 140 was now 25th on the list of school districts throughout the state waiting for loans. He said that it was important that the bonds definite building proposals than examples, Bannes said that the funds would definitely go toward "school facilities." Board President David Liedtke said that any number of possibilities were available, such as a K-5 building along with an addition to Tinley Heights School.

He added that referendums with a definite goal had already been tried, and had failed.

Durkin said that the village board is working on an ordinance that would increase the contribution made by developers in pre-annexation agreements to the village. of $50 Durkin from ar builds

Dew Drop girl wins $1,000 scholarship

TINLEY PARK — Edith Anne Folta, Oak Lawn, member of Dew Drop Camp 2023, Tinley Park, was among five Young Royal Neighbors from five different states who were 1972 winners of the national Fraternal Scholarships offered annually by Royal Neighbors of America.

The five, $1,000-a-year, four-year renewable scholarships offered young adult members of the society have been awarded to two young women and three young men, who ranked first in a field of more than 265 contestants for the grants.

Miss Folta, one of three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Folta, Oak Lawn, ranked among the top three in her class of 810 students at Harold L. Richards High School, Oak Lawn. She plans to attend the University of Illinois, Urbana, and is undecided as to what course of study she intends to pursue.

possibly languages, with the hope of becoming a translator, or psychology.

"Tapped" for membership in the National Honor Society in her junior year of high school, Miss Folta also was a member of Mu Alpha Theta (mathematics honorary), Quill and Scroll (literary club), PAPS club, Girls' club, and the "It's Academic" team, which she served as captain. This team appears on television on Saturday afternoon.

In her senior year, Miss Folta was named to Merit's "Who's Who Among American High School Students," became a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition, and was selected as an Illinois State Scholar.

She also was poetry editor of the literary magazine, and a member of both her school chorus and the choir of St. Linus Catholic Church, Oak Lawn, of which she is a member.

Miss Folta's employment record includes jobs as a babysitter during the summer and a sales clerk at a discount store throughout the school year.

Members of the scholarship winner's family who also hold membership in the Tinley Park camp include her sisters, Ellen and Phyllis Folta, and grandparents, Neighbors Raleigh and Josephine Bagby. Her mother, Patricia Folta, is a former member of the camp.

Students voters favor Rayson

TINLEY PARK. Rich Township students gave State Representative Leland Rayson (D., 9th) a 3-1 edge over his running mate in recent mock election held at Homewood-Flossmoor High School.

Rayson received 375 votes while Richard Kelly, a Democrat received 118 votes.

The other two candidates for the three vacancies in the 9th legislative district include Homewood Village president William Mahar who netted 250 votes and State Representative Lynn Brenne who received 178 votes.

In the race for state senator in the same district, State Representative Anthony Scariano (D., Park Forest) beat State Representative Donald Moore (R., Midlothian) 246-78.

Prior to the balloting, the candidates had the opportunity to address the students on their views and answer questions on current issues. The balloting was open only to juniors and senior students who are or will be eligible to vote on the November election.

"I think the parents and teachers of these students can be proud of the intellectual vigor of the questions asked by these young voters," Rayson added.

Student's poem in anthology

TINLEY PARK—James Braden Tindall, 6717 W. 165th Pl., a sophomore English major at the University of Puget Sound, recently had a poem selected by a board of judges to be published in the College Poetry Review. The Review is published by the National Poetry Press, Los Angeles, and is a biennial anthology of college poetry.

The anthology is a compilation of poetry written by the college men and women of America, representing every state in the union.

The following poem written by Tindall:

Through the winter—
you never changed your ways,
now you're looking for a better state of mind.
Seeming lost,
or else just hard to know, you let me ask you —
how lonely the winter was.

Waiting for 'no-no's Planners hear PUD proposal

By Gertrude Gallagher
ORLAND PARK — Despite holding up its recommendation to the Village Board the Orland Park Planning Commission appeared to reach a meeting of minds in a session with developer, architect and attorney for the Planned Unit Development proposed for the northwest corner of 159th Street and Harlem.

The developers are seeking annexation and rezoning for 80 acres under the PUD ordinance with 42½ acres for residential apartments, and 37½ acres in commercial development along Harlem and along 159th Street.

The planning commission will refrain from making any recommendations to the village board until the developers prepare and present to the planning commission as complete a list as possible of the restrictions desired by the commission on uses of the commercial property.

Under Orland's present zoning ordinance a change in zoning to Class C would allow a wide variety of commercial uses, some of which the village wishes to discourage.

Among the "no-no's" the planning commission listed it wanted to see written into the pre-annexation agreement were carryout and fast food drive-ins, gas stations, automotive oriented type stores, taverns and car agencies storing inventory along 159th Street.

Prime speaker for the developers, Architect Jens Jensen, said they have been approached by an auto agency for a store on five acres. Village Planner William Lawrence said he had no objection to a new car agency per se, but he objected to pennants flying, lights flashing, and storage of 75 per cent car inventory along 159th Street.

The commercial area was planned around one large chain store, whose name was undisclosed, on the corner. In reply to a question by commission member Ralph Caron whether the area which already has over 500 acres of commercial could support 40 acres of commercial in light of the PUD scheduled for 151st Street and LaGrange Road Jensen said, "A major store like this doesn't make mistakes in its market analysis."

The revised plans presented to the Planning Commission showed 11 residential buildings with five four-story structures and the rest two-story. A typical building would have three two-bedroom units, six efficiency units and nine one-bedroom units. Slightly over two cars per unit were planned.

On the private grounds reserved for tenants of the units will be a tennis court, pool, picnic area and club house. Twenty-two acres of green landscape is planned.

Compromising between the policy of a maximum of 14 units per acre, and the sought for 15 units per acre the planning commission agreed to allowing no more than 550 units on 40 acres. Later the developers agreed to design 2½ acres of commercial as residential, and thus will be permitted a maximum of 585 units.

Five per cent of the land, or 4 acres, will be dedicated for public use of the village. Commission members insisted that it be at the west end of the tract with 300-foot frontage on 159th Street.

It seemed apparent that if the developers present the commission with a signed agreement of what they will not put into commercial the commission will recommend that the village board accept the concept plan subject to qualifications. Such qualifications would include a market analysis, traffic survey, topographical study, method and location of providing for surface water retention, plans for interior flow of traffic, approval of the Fire Protection District, no access restriction on the corner, location of public property and landscape plan.

Robert Miller, chairman, said the planning commission would retain its right to review any development plans before building permits would be issued. Lawrence added that any subsequent plans would have to substantially conform to the concept plan presently at hand.

A public hearing will be held July 17 at the village hall on zoning and on pre-annexation agreement.

Developers are the firms of Charles L. Schrager Co. and Meyer C. Weiner Co. who developed the Dixie Square Shopping Center.

His work tunes them in TINLEY PARK — H. Daniel Mensing, piano tuner-technician and Tinley Park resident for twenty-four years, was recently selected to be an institute instructor in tuning at the forthcoming international convention of the Piano Technicians' Guild, Inc. He will also serve as the alternate delegate from the Chicago Chapter to the governing council of the build. The convention will be held on July 14 - 17 at Portland, Ore.

The Piano Technicians' Guild is an international non-profit organization of piano tuner-technicians. Its stated aims are to promote skill, integrity and reliability in piano service. It is the only such body officially recognized by the National Association of Piano Manufacturers.

Mensing holds a craftsman rating in the guild by examination, as does his father, from whom he learned the art of tuning as well as complete piano servicing.

Mensing, who holds a degree in music education, is also active as a member of the Board of Directors of the South Suburban Symphony Orchestra, is choir director at Peace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Tinley Park, and is a member of the Tinley Park Chamber of Commerce.

TINLEY PARK — David J. Steffgen, 6341 Kimberly Drive, was one of 198 Weber State College students to be listed on the spring quarter honor roll.
